

Virtual Gastric Band Technique

The virtual gastric band is a non-surgical technique using the power of hypnosis to train your mind and body to accept less food. The brain is trained to tell your stomach that it is full and there is no need for any more food. Using this technique you will regain control over your eating habits.

This is of course the principle behind the actual surgical procedure but the virtual gastric band carries with it no risk, no on-going medical treatment and the hypnosis can be done quickly and privately and without the need to wait on hospital waiting lists.

Virtual Gastric Band Technique was created by Sheila Granger. Proven effective for over 90% of those who participated in media trials in the UK... so, can it work for you?
